

With Home Boys In Service

From Marshall Rowland

Camp Greenleaf Ga.
Dear Tess:—This leaves me "away down South in Georgia." I'm well and alright. We left Louisville the 15th about 4 o'clock and got down here the next morning about 7 o'clock. I got to see the country as far South as Bowling Green, when it got dark. I tried to go to sleep; I awoke when we got to Nashville, when daylight came we were going through the mountains; the crops I have seen down here are not as good as they were at home.

Camp Greenleaf is in Chickamauga Park, right in the old battle ground. The Park is about thirty miles square and will accommodate about 80,000 men. I have been walking around some this evening.

Every regiment and brigade that fought in the old battle is marked by a big monument, and all about the fighting, and how many men were lost and wounded is written on the side. The battlefield is all in woods except the cleared fields, where the camp is. There are monuments all through the woods.

I saw two batteries of old cannon that were used in the battle; they were placed on big granite blocks. These are still in good shape. Four of them are big guns with brass barrels. It is said there are about 500 of them in the park; there are many of the old cannon balls with the guns. There are several big steel towers in the park; I went up in one of them; it was about 85 feet high; you could see all over the old battle ground.

About half a mile West of where I was in Missionary Ridge; a little further on is Lookout Mountain; we came around it, as we came down here; we are just across the line from Tennessee.

We heard that a big lot of troops come down from Camp Zach yesterday (the 30th); we've been looking for them all evening but did not find them. I don't know whether Allen came or not. We took a ten mile hike Thursday; we hiked out to Chickamauga creek, stopped there and cooked our dinner; each one had to cook his own dinner—mine was certainly a swell mess.

Our company has about 250 men in it. We are in Motor Co., No. 2 in the Medical corps. We all carry medical belts and do first aid work. We are stretcher bearers and are supposed to carry the wounded back where the ambulances can get them. We don't drill with guns at all but we are supposed to carry revolvers. We do infantry drills just to get the movements.

Well I guess you and Rose are through going over the neighborhood getting "the old girls signed up for service."

There are about 34 Breckinridge county boys down here: Silas Miller, Ethel Kanapple and Zimmie Smith are in the company with me.

Well I guess I'll quit for this time. Hoping you're all well, write me a long letter. Yours,

Marshall Rowland,
Camp Greenleaf Annex, Ga.
Chickamauga Park, Motor Co., No. 2

Removed to Camp Sherman

Chillicothe, O., June 17, 1918.
Dear Friend:—At last will try to write you. I have had so much to do that honestly, I have not had time to hardly think, only about the army. It was some job to move here, and it was worse when we arrived, had to keep so many records of equipment and check it on the train and check it as they unloaded it; so I have really been a busy man, and worse than that lonesome and blue. This is the worst place I ever saw; to have a good time in it, it is nothing like Camp Zachary Taylor. The Camp here is much nicer than Camp Taylor, but the town—it is no city at all, and the people seem so used to death of a soldier, so you see that is quite different from "Dear Old Kentucky." We started to train for real fighting, and we drill in some way, all the day and study half of the night; we really do not lose one minute's rest. The 83 Division has gone to France; it was located here, so it is time next. Don't know exactly, but it will not be many weeks, we do not slow down on the work are doing. I am afraid many of you will not be able to go across. I am so glad when we leave here France; every one wants to go. I want to go right to the front as time goes on, I can see so plain the Germans thought they could rule the United States, but will find out different when we through with them. But every will have to acknowledge they fighting people; I think it is wonderful how they can hold out. It ain't going to cost us a lot of money and men too, to win the war, one can never know what a sacrifice a soldier pays each day to be a real soldier, but I am proud that so many are willing to make any sacrifice to protect our right and help establish a lasting peace. I can see now how small the chance is to come back to America, after going on the other side, but I would rather go over there and die, than have them come on this side. The spirit has changed some in the Company since they told us we were going over real soon, but every one seems to make the best of it and wants to go and get through. No one thinks they will get killed—this is the last thing one thinks of.

I suppose the boys must be scarce in Stephensport now, as so many came in the last call. I believe they will go over as we do, for we like about 10,000 men having enough to make a full division, but they say we will get the men from Camp Taylor; if we do they will go as we do. I feel sorry for any that goes over with no more training than they will have, but they are sending men now that know very little about how to fight. Suppose they will train them on the other side. Do not know a thing to write about, only war, and perhaps it is not interesting to you, so will close for this time.

With all best wishes
Sincerely,
Sgt. John E. Barbee,
Co. M., 336 Infantry, Camp Sherman,
Chillicothe, Ohio.

Andrew Ashby has been transferred from Camp Zachary Taylor to Camp Beauregard, La., Co. A, 154 Infantry.

Ollie Orum, a Cloverport boy, who was employed in Rockport, Ind., before enlisting in the U. S. Army, June 15, was first sent to Jefferson barracks, Mo., and now he is in Portland Me., at Fort McKinley, Co. II, C. A. C. Private Orum is very much pleased with army life, especially since he has been sent up to the New England States.

Sugar for Canning Purposes

It will be necessary for all who wish to buy sugar for canning purposes to write this office for a certificate. It will be better to state just what it is to be used for and whether or not it is to be used immediately, upon application. This applies to all as no merchant is allowed to sell sugar for canning purposes until each has secured their approval certificate.
